Phoenix Tears' Guide to Using Cannabis Oil

What is Cannabis Oil?

Phoenix Tears Cannabis Oil is a full extract cannabis oil (FECO) designed for oral or topical use. Supplied in 10 and 20ml bottles, our cannabis oil is extracted using food grade ethanol. Our extraction process is non-toxic and does not contain any solvent residue. Each 20ml bottle contains 3g of pure cannabis extract.

Also called Rick Simpson Oil (RSO), THC Oil, Weed Oil or Dagga Oil in South Africa.

Which patients may be interested in using Cannabis Oil?

Cannabis Oil's first use was for curing skin cancer - basal cell carcinoma. Since then it has been used for a wide array of conditions including Pain, Crohn's Disease (highly effective), insomnia, anxiety, Multiple Sclerosis and Alzheimer's Disease.

Cannabis Oil is often used by patients who need a continued medical effect and symptom relief over a long period of time.

How to use Cannabis Oil

Start with a one drop. Your personal tolerance will build up over time until you're able to progress to 3 drops or more. Note that the product may leave you feeling light-headed and may be more suitable to be taken at night.

For topical applications such as for joint pain, arthritis and cancerous growths, rub a small amount into the skin on the affected area. Apply a bandage over the oil if necessary. Continue until you're satisfied with the outcome.
